About Yangzhou University

The university in Jiangsu Province is co-promoted by the Ministry of Education and the People's Government of Jiangsu Province to provide better and improved education to the people of the country. Of the many branches of study offered by the university, MBBS was offered as part of the university from 2006.

Providing a myriad of opportunities for international students to study and build an exceptional career in medicine, the college offering medical education under Yangzhou University has been authorized by the Education Ministry to process admission and admit international students for Clinical Discipline.

There are five departments that oversee education of several medical branches such as:

Clinical Medicine

Pharmacy

Basic Medical Sciences

Traditional Chinese medicine

Basic Nursing Science

All these departments function as suitable cogs that help the School provide some of the best and advanced education experience to the students, which makes the university one of the most preferred medical education destination for students across the world.

School of Medicine, Yangzhou University prides itself of having one of the most extensive and elaborate medical education facilities of the country when it comes to providing high quality education and training to the doctors of tomorrow.

The School also has extensive network of 9 hospitals to further provide impeccable training and exposure to the students enrolling for the MBBS program. Also, the college is one of the few that places extra emphasize on research facilities and has undertaken and executed several research programs.
